

Method

Compare the target to the index starting from `[0][n-1]`, because this is the first pivotal point where you can compare less than or greater than, being that the value there is the smallest in the column of the largest integers of the row, but it is the largest in its own row.

